Arena Wing Opens Candida 1st Night

Springford Directs Shaw Play
Howard in Title Role

By FRANCES HOLLAND

Tonight at 8.30 in the Ballroom of the Union, the Arena Wing of the Players' Club will present George Bernard Shaw's 'Candida,' their major production of the year. This is the first time that 'Candida' has been produced in Arena style in Montreal; and the play will run until Saturday night.

This Arena production of 'Candida' has been devised and directed by Norma Springford, director of many previous Players' Club productions. The scenic setting for this play has been designed and built by two McGill architecture students, Bill Kelly and Earl Ingram; and the costumes have been designed and executed by Margery Bird.

Maudeleine Howard is appearing in the title role of Candida, and Robert Robinson is playing the male lead of the Reverend James Morell. John Howard will appear as Burgess, Candida's father, and Austin Caverhill is playing the part of Marchbanks, the young poet in love with Candida. Edward Bell, a newcomer to McGill drama, has the part of Morell's curate, the Reverend Alexander Mill; and Prosperine, Morell's secretary will be portrayed by Vera Leskevich, who is also making her first appearance in a McGill production.

'Candida' will be the Arena Wing's fourth major production. In past years they have presented 'Thunder... Rock...', 'Ghosts', 'Naked', and several workshop productions of one-act plays, some of which have been written by members of the club.

Arena or Theatre-in-the-round has been called "the most important new development in theatre" and in recent years it has gained a wide popularity in the United States, and more and more Canadian cities are becoming interested in it. It is a form of theatre which makes great demands upon the actors because the proximity of the audience makes it imperative for them to concentrate on their acting every second they are on stage; for the audience notices every lapse. Arena theatre is considered an excellent medium for dramatic training because of this discipline of concentration.

Although people in dramatic circles feel that Arena will never supplant proscenium theatre, they still feel that Arena has an important position in the world of drama; for the lack of a formal stage and sets makes it possible to present plays in places where there are no theatres.

Day of Prayer To Be Observed In Moyse Hall

A special service will be held in Moyse Hall on Sunday, March 9, to commemorate the World Student Christian Federation Day of Prayer. Principal speaker at the ceremony will be Dr. Stewart Allen, who has just returned to Canada from China this February.

Dr. Allen was a Medical missionary in Chungking when the Communist army arrived and took over the government. He was subsequently interned, and after a year's imprisonment, deported.

The subject of Dr. Allen's address is: "That They All May Be One." This is the translation of the World Federation's Latin motto. The W.S.C.F. is a worldwide network of Christian Students that bridges barriers of race, nationality, creed and political beliefs.

The Federation with headquarters in Geneva, is over half a century old. Since its foundation, the Federation has produced many great Christian leaders, including such men as: Reinhold Niebuhr, William Temple, John R. Mott and Vigen.

Dean Thompson of Divinity faculty will also address the audience.

The Day of Prayer Service is organized by the Student Christian Movement Canadian Member of the world federation.

Starting time for the Moyse Hall Service is 4 p.m. All McGill Students are cordially invited to attend.

Individual Explained By Prof at Hillel

The last speaker at the "Meet the Faculty Series" at Hillel Foundation, was Professor Bridges, Psychology professor at Sir George William's College. During the past weeks, the role of institutions, universities, government and press have been considered.

Professor Bridges spoke yesterday of "The Role of the Individual" in creating unity where differences exist. Bridges stated that the individual's role is two-fold; what the individual can do for himself; what the individual can do for others.

The individual must develop a "democratic" character by cultivating values or attitudes necessary to a democratic society: self-reliance, co-operation, sense of social and political responsibilities, respect for truth, tolerance—whether delusive or comprehensive.

Prof. Bridges claimed that a democracy can't give freedom to groups, preaching intolerance; should not look for similarities, not differences.

"To attain an attitude is not enough," warned Professor Bridges. The individual as Parent, Teacher, Citizen or member of a Minority Group must try to cultivate and create an attitude of equal status—not submissive nor inferior, defensive or hostile.

Professor Bridges' lecture, "The Role of the Individual," was a dynamic ending to the "Meet the Faculty Series."

INNOVATION OF SEATING plan greeted the over 200 students who attended yesterday's Election Rally held in the Union Ballroom at noon hour. The seats were placed around the candidates in the form of arena wing. A small portion of the group were caught in the above photo with mixed expressions of interest and boredom. NFCUS Travel Rates Prove Not So Low Detailed information regarding summer travel schemes offered by the National Federation of Canadian University Students (NFCUS) is now available.

Brochures giving full details of tours available and student rates for transatlantic travel, and also application forms may be obtained at the Students' Council office in the Union, from Miss Norma de Witte.

Rates for travel are not as low as the advance publicity had claimed. Return passage from New York to Rotterdam and back is quoted at $300 for dormitory accommodation on the Dutch student liners SS Zuiderkruis and SS Groote Beer. Charter flights at costs ranging from $320 to $500 are also available.

Tours of every description, sponsored by the various national student unions, are described in the brochure "NFCUS summer travel '52". The British National Union of students in London, England, has offered to act as charterer and to act as host to students visiting in Britain. It maintains a hostel in London, open to all students, and also has a travel department which arranges student tours in Britain and on the continent.

Refreshments will be served. The wearing of the green will be definitely in style. The dance will begin at 8.30 p.m. at Newman House. Irishmen and others are cordially invited.

The chairman of the ball committee is Mr. Rod Lefebvre assisted by committee members Don Chalmers, Tink Kye, William Donahue, Lyons Ringrose, Harvey Revington and Donald Townsend.

Valla Exposes Forgery

Significant Documents in Exhibition

Significant Documents on exhibit in the gallery of the Redpath Library reading room is a display of rare documents by and relating to Lorenzo Valla, the famous 15th century Italian Renaissance writer.

The project of collecting these volumes was undertaken by students of the English 370 course (Culture and Literature of the Renaissance) at the suggestion of Professor Noad. The following students participated in the undertaking: H. Lewis, W. Whallen, M. Ballantyne, T. Gahan, K. Patterson and Miss Tobias.

Among the most important of these documents is Valla's treatise on the "Donation of Constantine."

He was the first to discredit completely and publicly the deed of gift by which Constantine the Great supposedly conferred upon Pope Sylvester I the Eastern half of the Roman Empire.

Valla proved conclusively that the document, giving the Roman church temporal supremacy over the sovereigns of Europe, was a forgery formulated sometime between 750 and 850 A.D.

Valla (1407-1457) was a great Italian humanist who was the first to give valuable historical criticism. Because of his many petral, critical storms, this humanism triumphed over orthodoxy and tradition.

Contemporary estimation of this man and his work is very favorable. Prof. Whitefield points out that Valla was the first critical mind of his time.

Two of his works, "On Pleasure" (1431) and "Dialogue on Free Will" (1440), greatly influenced Luther, who said: "Valla is the cleverest man that ever I found touching the past." John Calvin was similarly enthusiastic; while the "Dialogue on Free Will," which brings forth the theory that men have no free will, was further developed by Liebovitz.

Valla as a Grammarian was a great influence on Lily, the famous English Grammarian, who is spoken of in Shakespeare. Valla's Latin Grammar, The Elegant, was used in English Schools until the end of the 19th century.

Valla was also famous as a translator. He introduced several writers to Europe; and his translations include "Herodotus and Thucydides" and the Illiad.

His most famous work "The Donation of Constantine," which exposes the historically important fraud that marks a stirring episode in the history of Western thought, is now on display in the actual documents in the library.

Mr. John Lyman to Give Colorful Talk

Mr. John Lyman will speak to the Fine Arts Club and their guests on the subject of "colour."

This will be the last speaker of the year at the club although it will not be the end of the activities.

Elections for next year's executive will be discussed so that work may be begun now for next year.

Awards Banquet Set For March 12 in Currie Gym

The Student's Society Awards Banquet will take place in the Sir Arthur Currie Gym on March 12 Wednesday at 7 p.m. The guest speaker will be Mr. John T. Hackett, Q.C., first president of the Student's Society.

Each year it is the custom of the S.E.C., S.A.C., Women's Union, and the M. W.S. A.A. and some other campus organizations to give awards to those students who have served them in the college term.

The occasion is a large banquet, at which, this year, some 900 students are expected to attend. Sponsored jointly by the Students' Executive and Athletic Councils the event is regarded by most as the climax to student activity.

Members of the Administration, Board of Governors and the Senate will be present. The banquet will be chaired by Jacques Tetrault, President of the Students' Society.

Prior to the banquet the honored guests will meet in the McGill C.O.T.C. Officers' Mess. The banquet will officially commence in the Gym at 7 p.m. Following the dinner, Mr. Hackett will speak. The special group of the McGill Choral Society will sing. Awards will be presented by the S.E.C. and will be of three types: Gold, silver and bronze. The S.A.C. will also present awards to the outstanding athletes of the year and to the members of the various teams. Following the banquet, a dance will take place in the east end of the gym. The name of the band will be revealed later.

The committee in charge is co-chaired by Len Harbour and Ernie Pappas. In charge of publicity is Mary Draper, and Ann Skalth is the hostess in charge of waitresses.

Guest speaker at the banquet will be Mr. Anson McKim, President of the Merck Chemical Company. Mr. McKim is a McGill graduate, having received his Commerce degree in 1924. In 1927 he received the degree of Master of Business Administration from Harvard University.

Mr. McKim, who is a member of the board revising the School of

No More 'Experimental'

In all the past to do about Canadian Culture, it has been generally agreed that Canadian Theatre is still young, and so it is. But there has been a growing tendency to look too indulgently upon it, to condone its floundering and mistakes as natural to its youthful state. Mistakes and floundering are natural, but that does not mean they should be condoned. As Canadian theatre grows up, it must come to be judged by standards commensurate with its state of maturity.

With all its recent growth, Canadian Theatre is rapidly approaching the state where it can be judged by fully professional standards. All around the country there are springing up amateur groups, semi-professional groups, and even a few fully professional companies. There is even the beginning of a professional National Ballet company.

From the beginning, McGill has been in the forefront of Canadian Theatre. They were among the pioneers of Arena Theatre in Canada.

This evening in the Union Ballroom, the Arena Wing of the Players' Club will present Shaw's "Candida." Ever since the Arena Wing came into existence, it has been emphasized that Arena is new, it is "experimental."

But the time has at last come when the reintroduction of Arena is no longer new, no longer an experiment. At last it has proved itself. The success of Arena in the commercial Broadway theatre, the widespread adoption of its techniques in college and summer theatre throughout the United States, speak eloquently for this fact.

In the light of this we can no longer excuse any sloppiness of technique, any faults that, up to now might have been attributed to unfamiliarity with the new style of presentation. Arena has come of age, and we can no longer condone any adolescent gawkins.

In the case of the Players' Club, presentation of "Candida," we must also keep in mind the fact that the play is a well known one, its dramatic and aesthetic values well established. We hope that its force will be redoubled in the Arena production. Whether it is or not, we can no longer excuse ourselves by saying: "Well it is experimental theatre," for it just ain't so. D. G.

Letters to the Editor

To Dr. Duthie's Dullards

Dear Sir,
In the February 28th issue of The Daily there appeared an article by Dr. George I. Duthie entitled, "Many Misfits."

In this article Dr. Duthie kindly states that the unnecessary noise at the beginning and at the end of his lectures "is likely mere teen-age unrest brought on by the general unrest of the times."

I should like to say that this lack of respect, consideration for other fellow-classmates, and general lack of co-operation in the classroom is a result of poor upbringing by the parents of these students at home. Perhaps many of these unfortunate individuals lacked the influence of a father during a part or the whole of the wartime years. In these cases perhaps the mother was incapable of exerting the necessary control.

However, these individuals are now in an institution of higher learning. If they are at all capable of learning that which is higher, they should indeed be able to learn the more basic and fundamental concepts, such as respect for a learned man, or any man who has the floor, consideration for others who wish to hear what he has to say, and general co-operation with their fellow humans in order to produce a better atmosphere in which to live.

If these dullards do not wish to adhere to, or learn these basic concepts, then they should either absent themselves voluntarily from the class, or be asked to leave by those in the majority, whose immediate time they are wasting, and whose powers of concentration they are disturbing. The Professor should never have to lower himself to the point where he must ask a University student to leave the room or remain silent, although I have seen this embarrassing situation arise. No, the students who are being disturbed should teach these people what is right and what is wrong. That is not the Professor's task.

As for the inference or excuse that it is perhaps the result of the times, I would ask, Are we going to remain a result of our environment, or are we going to mold a new one based on our desire for more stability. Too many people these days blame the times instead of themselves for their poor behaviour.

Many of the men who left these children at home were fighting for the very concepts which these children are now trying to destroy. Many gave their lives in this fight. In comparison, the environment in which we live is a simple challenge. Are we going to succumb to it, or are we going to fight it.

Cheese for a Favourable Memory

Dear Sir,
Regarding Mr. Wilson's letter of yesterday I should like to make a few corrections.

He claims that the P.C. Club approved of Mr. Sheehan's visit. I take firm exception to this point, and mention that at no time did the Club approve of the visit. We invited Mr. Sheehan to sit in our benches as a courtesy to a foreign legislator and in view of the fact that he was opposing the Liberal Bill.

It is also to be noted that Mr. Wilson has indicated his basic philosophy on political matters. Everybody is wrong and he is right.

He has neglected to recognize the fact that the Political Clubs, who do all the work of Model Parliaments, were ignorant of the hoax and further, the many students who would have attended the Parliament to hear Mr. Sheehan would no doubt have been fired at wasting time listening to an impostor from Westmount.

Finally, since Mr. Wilson brought the subject to the fore, it might be added that the five pound cheese from the P.C.'s for Mr. Sheehan was "Black Diamond Cheese," a very special and famous type, and I feel sure that if Mr. Sheehan had actually come he would have been pleased with the present and retained favourable memories of his visit to McGill for many years.

DON G. JOSS,
President of McGill Progressive Conservative Club.

Jackets and Country Club Colleges

Dear Sir,
In regard to the letter published in the Tetra-weekly, written by G. Randel, B.A. III (obviously attending McGill incognito, as we are unable to find his and/or her name in the student directory) we would like to state that we wholeheartedly support his views in the matter of jackets in faculty colors.

We feel that if the situation is not changed immediately it will eventually lead to the introduction of (1) Peg pants in faculty colors, (2) Shirts in the Truman theme, (3) Hollywood haircuts and possibly and probably (4) the dying of girls' hair in faculty colors (and remember, only the young dye good).

Mr., Mrs., or Miss Randel, B.A. III, states that McGill is rapidly degenerating into a centre of common vulgarity like many of the other Universities of Canada. We feel that these gaudy articles of raiment may even lower the status of McGill to the level of the American country club colleges, such as: the Oswego State Teachers' College; the Graduate School of Basket Weaving of the University of Miami, or more insignificant institutions such as the Ivy League Schools.

In order to remedy the situation we heartily suggest that Academic robes be worn by all students while attending lectures, formal dress to be worn in all university buildings between the hours of 6 p.m. and the following morning, and that no person shall at any time make any reference as to what faculty he is in.

As Napoleon said when shown the first Eastman Photograph, "C'est magnifique, ce n'est pas de guerre!"

World Federalism Global Peace Through Law

By EDITH WYNNE

Amid the welter of internationalisms, world federalism represents the youngest as well as the most specialized branch of the world peace movement.

World federalists advocate the abolition of war through the organization of world federal government endowed with legislative, executive and judicial power in certain delegated fields and empowered to enforce world law directly on individuals. The difference between federalists and other peace advocates is simply this: that the federalist sees the abolition of war not through more love, more brotherhood, more alliances, more war or even more calories but principally in that final act of statecraft which will achieve government for the world community.

This belief of the federalist is well borne out by human experience which shows that the development of governmental practice is universal and has passed through numerous well-defined stages until today we have long ago reached the era of the super-federations such as the United States of America and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. Mankind is now precariously poised on the brink of the final stage—universal government. And the supreme crisis of our time, although for the most part unrecognized as such by our national leaders, lies simply in this momentous issue: will world government be created by conquest or by voluntary consent?

World federalists, of course, desire that world government be consummated by consent, for only then is it likely that the federation will contain essential safeguards for the individual.

Two Approaches
Beyond this simple over-all statement of federalist belief, there is a broad area of factional disagreement which among federalists themselves is broadly defined as minimalist and maximalist federalism.

The minimalist desires the world government to have transferred to it powers adequate to prevent war, or failing that, adequate to suppress aggression. To this end, the minimalist advocates world control of weapons of mass destruction, world enforcement of disarmament and world armed forces sufficient to destroy the aggressor.

To the maximalist this program is first of all inadequate and second it resembles uncomfortably the actual evolution of the United Nations by which the war system is much too likely to be perpetuated even though sugar-coated under the trade-mark of collective security. But to the hapless recipient, a bomb by whatever label, national or international, is equally catastrophic. The maximalist considers the power to suppress war insufficient in itself and wants to see transferred to world federal government broad peace-creating powers for promoting world welfare in social and economic fields. The maximalist wants world government engaged in the serious business of legislation, appropriation and administration on a world scale, spending the billions in precious resources, now drained away in war preparations, on raising living standards the world over.

As there is no hard and fast party-line on federalist policy there is also none on federalist action. Three major lines of activity to speed the establishment of world government have emerged from the efforts of world federalists:

Work Through U.N.
1. The most obvious approach to world government is by efforts to bring about revision of the United Nations Charter. No great power veto can prevent the holding of such a conference to discuss Charter revision. For those who believe in working for United Nations Charter revision it is not a moment too soon to begin to lobby both United Nations delegations and their own national governments.

2. The maximalist-minded federalist tends to be attracted by the direct action possibilities of the Peoples' World Constitutional Convention approach to secure world government. The proponents of this plan feel that the establishment of world federal government is so fundamentally a creative act that no national government has the right to negotiate it as the decision lies within the powers reserved to their people. To secure a registration of the peoples' will, direct election of delegates to a World Constitutional Convention, on the basis of one delegate per million of population, is advocated. In the United States this method depends on the introduction of bills in the state legislatures providing for such elections. In non-federal countries such electoral bills are being sponsored in the national parliaments.

The Peoples' Convention approach requires hard-hitting, persevering political action at the grass-roots level. It must build strong popular support not merely to elect delegates to the World Convention that is to write a Constitution for World Government but must be able to retain that support for the ratification struggle when the Constitution is referred back to the various nations for final approval. This is definitely not a short-cut to world government nor do its advocates put any faith in short-cuts based on the quick-sands of power-politics.

London Conference
3. At a Conference in London, England, in September 1951, a World Association of Parliamentarians for World Government was formed to coordinate the activities of federalist parliamentarians. It is too early to judge the activities of this international group of federalist politicians. There is no question but that federalist parliamentarians working together with

EVALUATION

It is as yet difficult to judge the practical significance of the world government movement. Entering its international organization dates adolescence and if we consider that its international organization dates only from 1946, the movement is still practically at the pre-school level. It takes much longer than this to mature a great reform movement and to develop the high-ranking leadership that is required. The rush of atomic converts after the bombing of Hiroshima gave the idea of world government a sudden vogue which, at least in the United States, inflated membership figures

Seven Candidates Will Vie for Top Posts Today

Student Society President

Peter Cameron

Platform

It is my belief that student government has, in the past year, been run to the general satisfaction of the majority. I do not propose, therefore, a large number of detailed changes, but rather a shift in emphasis on three main points:

1. Co-ordinated Financial Aid:

While definitely favouring the present policy of underwriting student activities such as Clubs, Dances, and the Red and White Revue, I feel that this should be more efficiently co-ordinated. During my tenure of office as Commerce representative on the S.E.C., and as Chairman of the Finance Department of that organization, I have noted unnecessary disbursements of student funds, because of the assumption that "The S.E.C. will cover the losses." This most unrealistic attitude has two harmful effects:

(1) It reduces the surplus needed for capital repairs over the summer months to Student's Society equipment, such as the Union;

(2) It encourages an attitude with respect to finances which would not be tolerated in future life.

This can only be overcome by more systematic and efficient policy. I favour co-ordinated aid, but not a give-away program.

2 Student Athletic Autonomy:

McGill has, in the past, been respected for her non-professional attitude toward sports. During the same period it has been our proud boast that the students played a more active role in the organization of athletics, than in almost any North American University. It is my experience that the above facts are not unrelated. I therefore regret an appreciable trend toward faculty control and professionalism in recent years.

The reorganized S.A.C. has done an excellent job over the past year, but there are still flaws in our sports hierarchy. Students must have greater representation at all levels of the athletic organization and particularly on the important Athletic Board, the membership of which presently consists of 3 students, 3 graduates and 3 faculty representatives. Due to the students' limited tenure of office, a considerable shift toward graduate and faculty control has gone largely unnoticed.

I will make it my duty to curb this trend and will work toward greater autonomy for the athletic representatives of the students. Encouragement of minor sports is intrinsically bound up with the above attitude.

3. Inter-University Relations:

I make no pretense of extensive knowledge concerning N.F.C.U.S. and I.S.S. I have nevertheless become familiar with certain of the larger issues involved.

There has been considerable discussion recently concerning a separate I.S.S. fund raising campaign on the campus. McGill's contribution to this organization has been favourably compared to smaller universities.

Personally, I resent percentage point discussions of charitable contributions. The Combined Charities fund was set up in order to co-ordinate financial appeals. I see no reason why I.S.S. or any other group should envisage a break with the combined charities and confront students with further requests for money. The times when every organization made its own appeal have been happily forgotten, and I do not favor this return.

N.F.C.U.S. and I.S.S. play an important part in our relations with other universities, and I therefore propose that an advisory committee which could be convened at the request of the above organizations be set up to advise them on Student Society policy. The membership on such a committee could be worked out between the S.E.C., N.F.C.U.S. and I.S.S. on a basis of negotiation. I will make it my purpose to support I.S.S. and N.F.C.U.S. within reason. I do not believe that student interests and those of N.F.C.U.S. and I.S.S. are necessarily synonymous.

Much S.E.C. activity consists of everyday administrative and executive work, the scope of which Continued on Column 8

Bill Magyar

Platform

If elected President of the Students Society, I shall advocate a policy of active co-ordination and continuous improvement of student administration. I do not propose any major changes in the constitution or the form of government, but I will uphold the following:

1) To give eminence to the Undergraduate Societies' Presidents Committee in setting policies and in carrying them out as they represent the entire student body. Consequently the Undergraduate Societies should have complete control of their finances, being responsible for budgeting to the Undergraduate Societies President's Committee.

(2) To maintain, and not to accelerate the accumulation of a surplus. I do not intend to plunge the Society into debt, and cause undue hardships for the future, but I do think that students should receive maximum benefits from the fees that they pay today. Slashing budgets and instituting "no-activities weeks" will not achieve this aim.

(3) To supplement the quorum presently required for Student Society meetings with the referendum as a last resort to decide on motions presented to the Students Society. Its practice was started last year and should be carried on to ensure a progressive student government.

(4) To strive for more active student participation in all activities sponsored by the Society and yet maintain the high scholastic standing that is called for.

(5) To support the numerous clubs and societies on the campus to the utmost, financially and morally, and to encourage their aid in inviting well-known personalities to speak to these various groups.

(6) To work for the establishment of a new Union. These are some of the items of deep interest which I shall always keep in mind. Besides these, I pledge myself to carry out all the duties and assignments required of the President of the Students Society to the best of my ability, and to serve for the better interests of the student body on the Students' Executive Council and the Students' Athletics Council.

William B. Magyar.

Pen Sketch

In nominating Bill Magyar to the position of President of the Students' Society, we firmly believe that he has the necessary qualifications of leadership and experience required for this important post.

Bill is presently in his fourth year of mining engineering. His first two years were spent at Dawson where he proved his ability in a number of varied extracurricular activities. He was news editor of the Dawson Weekly at a time when this paper was a prime example of Dawson's famous unity and spirit. At the same time he was secretary-treasurer of the Dawson Engineering Undergraduate society. Bill also showed a keen interest in intramural athletics, managing the renowned floor-hockey league while also being an active participant.

Upon entering McGill proper in the fall of 1950, Bill was honoured by being elected to the Scarlet Key Society; he was also made a member of Phi Epsilon Alpha, the honorary engineering society.

Last year he was chairman of the Students Intramural and Recreational Council and was thereby a member of the Students' Athletics Council. His organizational abilities were brought to light again in the reorganization of the S.A.C. for which he was partly responsible, and for cementing SEC-SAC relationships.

This year, while not occupying any major campus post, Bill has been actively engaged on the committees of the Winter Carnival, the Plumbers' Ball, and the Mining and Continued on Column 8

Mel Rothman

Platform

In outlining my program I wish to make quite clear my determination to see each of the following points realized:

Executive Administration

1. A clearly non-political approach to student affairs.

2. Thorough and deliberate supervision of Students' Society finances.

3. Encouragement of stronger, more active undergraduate societies through necessary financial backing and competitive programming.

4. Establishment of an External Affairs Committee to co-ordinate all relations between the McGill Students' Society and students elsewhere in Canada and throughout the world. This committee would give the Society one strong voice where problems of external policy arise, e.g. the Canadian-Soviet exchange question.

5. Thorough and exhaustive report to the student body on the possibility of a new Union.

6. Urge the abolition of the "No Activities Week" and a return to five issues of The Daily a week. If these two experiments have not appreciably affected academic standings.

7. Propose to the undergraduate societies that they set up second-hand book exchanges within each faculty, and insist that the prices of new books at the Book Store be kept at the lowest possible level.

8. Reorganization of the Advertising Board enabling greater financial income through individual initiative to the Annual, Choral Society, Red and White Revue, and Players Club.

Educational and Entertainment
1. SCOPE—full support for this committee set up by the SEC this year to promote activities of a cultural and entertaining nature. SCOPE ought to be able to give extensive financial backing to clubs and organizations which wish to invite speakers or entertainers who would be of broad interest on the campus. A comprehensive program of speakers in almost every field ranging from Canadian Literature through Sports to Atomic Fission ought to be maintained here as it is at the better American and British Universities.

2. Investigation into an Arts and Science course in public speaking. Every student shall some day have to speak before a group of one kind or another, yet no formal training is available in public speaking here as it is at most other Universities.

3. Encouragement of a mature campus humour magazine along the lines of the Harvard Lampoon.

Athletic and Recreational:

1. Full support to intramural and recreational athletic program.

2. Guarantee that money students pay towards the athletic program will ensure them a strong voice in the formation of all athletic policy.

3. Press for at least one more outdoor hockey rink to encourage intramural, inter-fraternity and faculty hockey teams, therefore broadening student athletic participation.

4. Emphasis on the Winter Carnival, Athletics Nights and other such activities which have wide student participation and serve to promote college spirit.

Mel Rothman

Pen Sketch

We, the undersigned, are firmly convinced that Mel Rothman is the outstanding choice for the Presidency of the Students' Society. If one had to choose the four chief qualities the job requires, they would be maturity, balance, tact and experience. Mel Rothman has clearly demonstrated that he has all four.

Now a first year law student, Mel was graduated from McGill last spring after an impressive career in undergraduate life:

Union President

Danny Kingstone

Platform

The president of the McGill Union has a two fold function.

1. His primary one is to master and administer the problems and details necessary to the running of such an institution.

2. The second one is to increase the facilities, create new activities and promote new ideas.

Unfamiliarity with the administrative problems leaves one little time to carry out the second function which is equally important.

Having been on the Union House committee, I feel that, as well as attending to the administrative details, I could devote more time to broader policy.

General Policy

The Union should become more of a center of students' interests and activities, and therefore I would like to see the following instituted.

Activities

1. In co-operation with the executives of the various faculties, there could be more gen nights, professors' teas, etc.

2. Bring down more speakers to discuss topics of interest to all whether they be of a political, cultural, or scientific nature.

3. Have more informal dances at the Union so that students can spend an enjoyable and relatively inexpensive weekend.

4. Encourage students to exhibit their art and other handicrafts in the Union.

REPAIRS AND RENOVATIONS

1. Improve the appearance of the main lobby by installing indirect lighting and repainting the walls.

2. Install air conditioning in the ballroom, cafeteria, and the lounge.

3. Sandblast the front of the building to present a more beautiful exterior.

4. Purchase more folding chairs for the ballroom so that clubs and societies would not have to rent them.

Since the present Union has outgrown its facilities due to increased enrollment, I would attempt to secure support for a new building.

"Till then, I will do my best to see that the present Union facilities are put to their best use."

Danny Kingstone

Pen Sketch

Those of us who have worked with Danny and have known him these past few years, endorse him as our 'candidate for the Union presidency, without any doubt or hesitancy.

We believe that the job of Union president should go to a man who is familiar with its administrative problems, is able to estimate a sound and satisfactory policy, and is capable of undertaking the responsibility that goes with the position. And therefore, because of his past experience and accomplishments, we feel that Dan is the man for the job.

Danny is an honour student in Political Science. In the last year he has been at McGill he has:

1. Won the Bovey Shield for public speaking.

2. Debating executive.

3. Winter Carnival executive.

4. Combined Charities executive.

5. Chairman of Pep Rally committee.

6. Intramural football and basketball.

7. Chairman of the Dates Committee.

8. Secretary of McGill Union.

9. Signing officer of the McGill Union.

10. Vice-President of the McGill Union.

He has performed all these jobs well, and we are sure if Dan is elected he will continue ably to represent and carry out the wishes of McGill Students.

Platform

During the past few years in my connection with student activities including one year of living in the Union as Managing Editor of the Daily I have felt that the Union is scarcely a part of campus life. Actually less than ten per cent of McGill students make regular use of the building.

The fact is that during the past years the Union has become nothing more than a building. It will be my aim if elected President of the Union to make it a service to the students rather than the mere convenience it now is.

In attaining this aim I intend to bring to bear the following policy:

(a) To set up under the Union House Committee a well-organized Campus Date Bureau;

(b) To conduct dances in the Union when possible to which it will be socially acceptable to come;

(c) To maintain a higher standard of cleanliness throughout the building;

(d) To conduct future renovations with an eye to making the Union a more attractive place for students;

(e) To purchase a stock of folding chairs for use by campus clubs and societies particularly in the Ballroom;

(f) To investigate the possibility of appropriate murals or pictures on the various bare expanses of walls;

G) To continue what has come to be known as the Union five year plan including particularly (a) Completion of renovations in the basement particularly those rooms used by campus clubs, (b) Renovation of the main lobby, (c) Cleaning of the building exterior.

The problem of a new Union should also be constructively revived. I propose to do this by a realistic reappraisal of the problem.

A. After collecting all relevant data on the present building to formulate a report on the necessity of a new Union, discovering if possible, when this necessity will arise.

B. To devise a plan whereby funds for a New Union will be ready when the necessity arises.

C. If no action appears necessary within the near future to draw up a studied repair and renovation plan for the Union Building and furnishings, along the lines of sensible modernization.

It is my belief that a basic change in Union policies is absolutely essential to perpetuate, and even maintain the McGill Union; however, I also feel that more than flashy ideas is needed, the basic plank of my platform is nothing more than good old-fashioned hard work.

Jim Robb.

Pen Sketch

Jim Robb is at present a First Year Law student and president of his year. He has taken a very active part in student activities on the campus this year including the Law Undergraduate Society, and particularly the recent Law Issue of the McGill Daily, also is Assistant Editor of the McGill Law Journal, and was Business Manager of FORGE.

While working for his Arts degree Jim was a member of the executive of the McGill Daily, last year as Managing Editor, and the year before as Assistant Sports Editor. As Managing Editor last year he lived in the McGill Union and thus had contact with every type of student function, particularly with the workings of the Union. This coupled with a broad knowledge of student activities in every phase which he gained as a member of the Daily Managing Board has given him an insight and background which will prove invaluable as President of the McGill Union.

Womens Union President

Ann Skaith

Platform

First of all, I should like to thank all those who have nominated me for President of the Women's Union.

I shall make every effort to allot a percentage of the funds of the Women's Union towards the purchase of books pertaining to the most important Arts, Science and Commerce courses. These books would be kept in the R.V.C. library.

To the utmost of my ability I shall support the women of McGill both in the routine work of the Women's Union and in any special problems that arise during the year. I would like to carry on a number of activities started this year, namely the Cancer Clinic and free concert tickets for the non-resident students.

Since the number of women students at McGill is increasing steadily each year, I feel that a special effort should be made to create greater unity between the non-resident and resident women students at the university. Open houses at R.V.C. on special occasions should certainly be continued and should be publicized well in advance.

At all times I shall give my utmost co-operation to the President of the M.W.S.A.A. and shall take a definite interest in all athletic activities. I should like to see more women taking part in sports at McGill, and it is my intention to foster women's representation on the Athletics Night and Winter Carnival Committees.

As a member of the S.E.C. I shall try to co-ordinate the interest and activities of the women of McGill with those of the general student body, and shall make it my prime concern to keep the Council aware of the needs of McGill women.

Ann Skaith.

Pen Sketch

Ann has already proved her ability as an executive. But there is an even more important fact to be gained from examination of her activities since she came to McGill, and that is that she is interested in every aspect of women's activities on this campus.

She was elected to the Red Wings in her first year, was Vice-President of the M.O.C. Riding Club, and was a member of the Choral Society. In her second year she swam on the Intercollegiate team, was on the Executive of the Winter Carnival, and was elected Member-at-Large to the Women's Union, which she represented this year on the Combined Charities Committee.

In short, she is truly representative of the women students at McGill, and is excellently qualified to act for them in the capacity of President of that Union.

We have every confidence in Ann, not only because of her past record, but because we know from experience that any job she does, she does well. She is able, conscientious, and an efficient and experienced executive.

For these reasons we recommend Ann Skaith for the position of President of the Women's Union.

Ruth Taylor

Platform

Before stating any of the projects that I would undertake if I were elected President of the Women's Union, I would like to express my sincere thanks to all those who nominated me for the position. The Women's Union plays a very vital role in Student Government at McGill University and I consider it an honour to be nominated for such an important post in it.

During my term of office as Secretary of the Women's Union, it has come to my attention that very few women on the campus are fully aware of the facilities available to them and the activities made possible for them through the Women's Union. Therefore I would like to see much more publicity for this organization in the coming year. This could be carried out by inserting more articles in the Daily, by establishing a Women's Union Information Booth at registration and by extending the handing out of Women's Union Activities Cards to all women students at the time of registration.

Plans have been made to redecorate and improve conditions in the Women's Common Room in the Arts Building, and I would do my best to see that these plans were carried out. I would also like to see certain other facilities such as a stamp machine and a chocolate bar machine put at the women students' disposal in the basement of R.V.C.

Most important of all, I will do my utmost to see that women's rights are acknowledged on the campus, and that the activities of the Women's Union are directed in accordance with the wishes of the majority of the women students at McGill University.

Ruth Taylor

Pen Sketch

A most important qualification for the President of the Women's Union is to have a wide insight into the workings of the administration. Since Ruth has been Secretary of the Women's Union for the past year, and has devoted herself conscientiously to the job, we the undersigned believe that she is well qualified for the position.

Before coming to McGill, Ruth was a member of the Student's Council, President of the French Club and Secretary of the H.Y. at Westmount High School.

Ruth came to McGill on the Narciassa Farrand Scholarship and since then has maintained a high standard of scholastic achievement, being awarded the McCall Daily Prize for scholarship and promise of contribution to Canadian citizenship.

As a Red Wing, Ruth has taken part in a great variety of campus events, besides being a member of the Choral Society.

Because of her essential qualities as a leader, her friendliness and enthusiasm, as well as her devotion to any job she undertakes, we have no hesitation in endorsing Ruth as worthy of your unqualified support for President of the Women's Union.

PETER CAMERON.

Pen Sketch

We, the undersigned, confidently recommend Peter Cameron for the position of President of the Students' Executive Council.

Peter, who is an undergraduate student in good standing, has had varied experience in all phases of campus activity since he first came to McGill in 1948. In his four years at University he has proven again and again that he has the attributes necessary to fulfill the highest office of Student Government.

His major contributions have come through the financial departments of various organizations, all of which entail much work and little public recognition.

In 1950 he served on the Winter Carnival Committee as Treasurer, and as such had complete control over the disbursement of a $15,000 budget. He was elected to the Students' Society in December, 1951, and appointed as Chairman of the Finance Department. Since that time he has been active in the formulation of S.E.C. policies, both financial and otherwise. We feel that financial training is an invaluable asset for the President of the Students' Society.

In addition to the above points, Peter has been an active member of the Scarlet Key. He was elected to represent his faculty in the academic year 1949-50, and was appointed an advisor for the following year.

Prior to his appointment as Treasurer of the Winter Carnival, he was chairman of the Transportation Committee, and subsequently Vice-Chairman of this year's executive.

In his first years at McGill, he was active in athletics, playing Intermediate Football in 1948, and 1949, and Intramural Hockey in the same year.

Some of his other activities include:

Athletics Nights Organizations—1948-49.
Blood Donors Clinic—1949.
Student Mess Treasurer C.O.T.C.—1949.

Combined Charities—1949.

It is our experience that when confronted with a job Peter has always given of his best. He works easily with others and is capable of co-ordinating and maintaining an efficient administration. He has always shown sincerity, friendliness and capacity for hard work, which we are sure will recommend him to all students.

Womens Union Secretary

Carolee Beaudoin

Platform

First of all, I would like to thank all those who nominated me to the position of Secretary of the Women's Union.

Many women students at McGill University are not fully aware of all the advantages offered them by the Women's Union. For instance the promotion of the cultural interests provided by the Women's Union through the Theatre for Non-Residents has proved popular to the small group of women students who have taken advantage of this opportunity. Through the means of extensive publicity, I would like to see the participation of a larger number of women encouraged.

I believe that the project of refurnishing the common room in the Arts Building in order that more of the women will make use of it is a good one and I would like to see this continued next year.

During the past few months as Member-at-Large for second year non-resident students, I have acquired some knowledge of the procedure and policy of the executive, and have become acquainted with the duties expected from the secretary of this organization. I feel that I am capable of taking on the responsibility of this position, and, if elected, will devote the time and interest due such an office, keeping in mind at all times that it is for the benefit of the women students that this Union stands.

Carolee Beaudoin

Pen Sketch

Fellow students at Trafalgar School for Girls will remember Carolee as a sincere and conscientious student who ultimately showed her leadership abilities by becoming prefect, gym captain, and associate-editor of the school magazine.

Since coming to McGill two years ago, she has continued to take an active part in both social and scholastic affairs on the campus and was a member of the Choral Society in her first year.

This past December, Carolee was elected second year non-resident Member-at-Large to the Women's Union, a responsible position in which she has fast proven herself an earnest and dependable worker. She is in charge of the distribution of tickets for the Women's Theatre for Non-Residents, a project designed to promote interest and participation in the services offered students by their Union. And with the purchase of new paddles and balls, she is currently trying to reconstitute the ping-pong room in the west wing of R.V.C. as a place where the non-resident students may spend their spare time in recreation.

Past experience as a member of the Women's Union is a necessary and vital factor in a person's qualifications for the position of Secretary of the Women's Union if she is to be expected to fulfill her duties to the best of her ability. Carolee has had this experience and has shown herself, by active participation, an earnest and capable person, sincerely interested in working for the benefit of the women undergraduates at McGill. Platform

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who have nominated me for the position of Secretary of the Women's Union. If I am elected to this position I shall assist the president and the rest of the executive to the best of my ability. I promise to help maintain the good work of the Women's Union and to represent in my vote the wishes of the majority of the women students at McGill University.

Marybel McCall.

Pen Sketch

After taking her Senior Matric at Bishop Strachan School, Marybel entered McGill last year as a first year student. Since then she has maintained a good scholastic record, besides taking a keen interest in activities and sports.

Those who knew Marybel at Netherwood where she sang in the school choir, will remember her friendliness as well as her keen interest in any job she undertook. For the past two years she has been an active member of the Choral Society and has worked for the Combined Charities.

Marybel is an experienced typist which is a decided asset for any one taking over a job as secretary. She is conscientious, helpful, as well as being able to get along with people easily, and because of these qualities we the undersigned feel that Marybel deserves your vote as Secretary of the Women's Union.

The women students at McGill need good leadership, and the Women's Union Executive needs a capable secretary. Judy Patton is our choice of that leader. She is ideally suited to the position of Secretary of the Women's Union Executive in every way. She has the enthusiasm to uphold the work of the Women's Union, and she has the executive ability necessary to further its aims to the best interests of the women students.

As a second year student in the Faculty of Arts, Judy has already proven her interest in student affairs. While at school, she undertook the difficult management of the Red Cross organization and followed a varied program was president in her final year. She has participated in varied organizations

Mike Brodeur

Platform

Since the Chairman of the Student Athletic Council is primarily concerned with athletic policy and administration, I will limit my platform to this side of student activities.

1) I will represent the student interests in all matters of athletic policy and administration.

2) Investigate the possibilities of a more suitable athletic award system.

3) I will attempt to maintain the existing athletic system which was fully reorganized last year.

4) Insist on better seating facilities for the students at football games.

5) Insist on more adequate rink facilities for intra-mural and inter-fraternity hockey leagues.

If elected, I will do the utmost to fulfill the duties and responsibilities of my position.

Mike Brodeur.

Pen Sketch

We, the undersigned strongly feel that Mike Brodeur, is the best choice for President of the S.A.C. due to his experience, interest and ability.

Mike has been interested in athletics ever since he came to McGill. He has played on the McGill Squash Team for three years, winning the Dominion Junior Squash Championship last year, and this year he was elected Captain of the McGill Team.

In 1951 Mike was the Arts and Science Intra-Mural Athletic representative, sitting on the Intra-Mural Council as well as playing floor hockey for his Faculty.

In other campus fields, Mike Brodeur was nominated to the Scarlet Key in 1950, where he was again elected to the Scarlet Key Executive. Mike is also an Officer in the McGill Reserve Squadron, as well as maintaining a high academic average.

Because of his previous experience and interest, as well as his ability in organization and athletic administration, we feel that Mike Brodeur is the man most capable of directing and extending student athletic representation, and for this reason we endorse him as President of the Student Athletic Council for 1952-53.

Ian Rutherford

Platform

If I am elected to the office of chairman of the Student's Athletics Council I will devote as much time and effort as possible to bring about the following changes, recommendations and improvements.

1) To see that the Students lose none of the power and responsibilities which they now have in the smooth operation of athletics for which the University is well noted.

2) To urge the proper authorities to see what can possibly be done to speed the construction of the rink auditorium, which I am informed has been partially paid for by contributions from the Graduates' Society.

3) To see that the skating rink, on the lower campus, which so many enjoyed, is replaced next year and in the years following.

4) To see that a suitable training table is put in force so that members of teams which practice during dinner hours are assured of a good meal which they are not obliged to pay for out of their own pockets.

5) To see that pre-game rallies are brought up to the standards prevalent before this last year.

6) To see the Band and the cheerleaders are present at other spectator sports and not merely at football games.

7) To see a definite policy on outside athletics established at the University.

8) To see that intramural sports in which a far greater percentage of our College Athletics participate are not neglected nor relegated to second place to the more publicized intercollegiate sports.

9) To see that the Winter Carnival and Athletics nights are as excellently managed and as well carried out in the future as they have been in the past.

10) To see that the Athletics Handbook, which is available at no cost to all students, is kept up to its present high standard.

Ian H. Rutherford.

Entering Engineering at McGill in 1950 from Westmount High School Ian brought his knowledge of high school athletics with him to University. In his freshman year he was appointed assistant manager of the McGill Track Team, and last spring he was made senior manager.

Serving in a temporary position on the old Student's Athletics Council in 1950-51, he was a member of the managerial committee where he gained invaluable knowledge of college athletics. This knowledge was further increased by his position on the Intercollegiate Athletics Council this year.

Being a member of these two councils for the past two years places Ian in an excellent position to understand fully the current problems of college athletics and qualifies him for the position of chairman of the Student's Athletics Council.

Four Students Survive Close Brush with Death

Pierre Lacombe, Gerry La Pointe, Gerald Grant and George Mannard, four McGill students, escaped unharmed after a near brush with death when their car overturned while travelling to Sherbrooke Saturday morning.

Near Granby the car hit a patch of glare ice and went out of control. It then hurtled off the road, turned over while in the air and landed on its roof. After landing it slid 30 feet into a fence.

"The top of the car was badly crushed," said George Mannard, "and it was a miracle that none of us were hurt, although we were all badly shaken."

MWSAA President

Jean Machan

Platform

Before presenting my platform, I would like to express my appreciation to those who nominated me for this position.

There are three main points to the platform which I am presenting to you, and which I feel would be beneficial to the women students of McGill.

Firstly, I would like to see an increased participation in the Intramural and Recreational sports which are provided by the M.W.S.A.A. This can be accomplished by a more concentrated effort to bring the benefits of these activities as well as their recreational and social values to the attention of the women students.

Secondly, an increased participation by women in our now famous Athletics Nights.

Thirdly, I would like to see a continuation of the Extramural Meet with Macdonald College which is being held for the first time this year. It provides an opportunity for our Intramural champions to compete with those of Macdonald College and a chance to get better acquainted with our cousins.

In conclusion, if elected, I shall do my best to uphold the interests of the students on the Women's Athletic Board as well as putting into effect the points which I have listed above.

Jean Machan.

Pen Sketch

We feel that Jean Machan, now in her third year at McGill, is ably equipped by her executive and athletic ability for the post of President of the M.W.S.A.A.

At High School Jean played on her school's Basketball, Badminton and Softball teams, and since she has been at McGill, has been an important member of the Intercollegiate Basketball team for the past two years.

She has proved conclusively that, joined with her athletic prowess, she also has sound executive capacity—an important factor in the office to which we wish to have her elected. At Lachine High School Jean was President of the Athletic Association and a member of the Student Council. This year at McGill she has held the important post of Intramural Manager of the M.W.S.A.A., a position which has given her valuable insight in the management of the various athletic clubs. At present Jean is also Chairman of the Women's Open Basketball League, and a member of the Montreal Board of Women Sports Officials.

The above few highlights in her active career justify your confidence in electing Jean Machan to the office of President of the M.W.S.A.A.

The students were travelling to Sherbrooke to visit the Asot Mine on a tour under the sponsorships of the Montegregian Geology Society. After the accident they were able to get the car back on the road and after minor repairs continued to Sherbrooke to participate in the tour of the mine and mill.

Eighteen students of geology and mining engineering participated in the tour which was part of the society's regular programme.

First I would like to thank all those who nominated me for the position of M.W.S.A.A. president. If elected I will endeavour to carry out the many duties of this office and in so doing will emphasize the following:

1) To make McGill Women more aware of the many athletic activities in which they may participate.

2) To have a larger representation of women's teams participating in Athletic Nights.

3) To encourage a greater pictorial coverage of women's sports in the Daily.

Ann MacLeish

We feel that Ann MacLeish would make a capable, efficient president of the M.W.S.A.A.

As a 3rd year science student she is very interested in Women's Sports at McGill. She has worked hard as the manager of the Archery Club and as such is a member of the Women's Athletic Council.

Ann has also represented McGill on Intercollegiate Archery and Rifle teams.

Her friendly personality, quiet humour and leadership ability would be valuable assets for an active year of sports on the campus.

Carabins Down Redmen 7-3 at Verdun

Merling Seizes Collegiate Scoring Lead from Griffin

Though the past week-end was unsuccessful for the Redmen as a team, the two games were definitely a success from the personal viewpoint of centre Sheldon Merling.

Merling scored 14 points in both the Western and Toronto contests and with the 28-point total boosted himself to the leadership of the league's individual marksmen.

He now has 99 points in seven games. This is five more than Queen's ace sharpshooter Don Griffin. Griffin, last week's leader with 76, scored 18 points against McMaster in Hamilton on Friday night while his team lost 79-72.

The Galloping Gael has played six games—one less than Merling. Next three on the list—also with a game in hand over Merling—are Western's Bill Pataky with 90, and Blueboys Lou Lukenda and Ray Monnot with 89 and 87 respectively.

Pataky scored 19 and 13 markers against McGill and Toronto to move from fifth to third while the Torontonians each dropped a place in the standings.

Redmen's statistics changed over the weekend as well. Merling finally overhauled Ben Tissenbaum, and with 222 points in 17 games, leads the Andersonmen. Tissenbaum was injured in the Western game and hampered by the injury scored but six markers in both games. He now has a 201 point total.

The league enjoys its busiest week of action to date this week with no less than four games on tap between tonight and Monday night.

Starting things off are the McMaster Marauders and Toronto Blues who clash in a game at the Toronto Mutual Street Arena tonight.

The Wynne Wonders play again on Friday night—this time at home. The Redmen provide the opposition.

Queen's Gaels and Western Mustangs fight it out at London on Saturday night.

The Blues swing into action again on Monday night when they play host to the Queen's Gaels.

Frosh Program

by DON ALLEN

McGill's required sports program for freshmen is "lining itself up pretty well"; the outlook for sessions to come is for bigger things ahead.

With the first year of the Program rapidly drawing to a close, director Mike Yuhasz took time out yesterday to review five months' work on the part of his staff of 14, comment on the choices of 450 freshmen who participated, and reveal a few of his plans for the Program for the 1952-53 college year.

Requiring that each freshman select two team or recreational sports and attend classes and practices throughout the session, the Program was introduced into the University last fall.

Classes in swimming and squash proved most popular, Yuhasz reports, followed by badminton and basketball. Twenty-two options were available; tennis and hockey were the only major sports in which lack of facilities made classes impractical.

A survey conducted at the opening of the Program revealed that half the freshman class (men) had played on a high school senior team; only 15 per cent admitted being unable to swim 100 yards. Badminton, tennis, volleyball and handball had been the sports in which most freshmen claimed reasonable proficiency.

In connection with the Program most freshmen "made wise choices"—wanted to learn a sport that they hadn't played before," Yuhasz notes. Squash, badminton and basketball were top on the list. Close to 30 per cent signed up for swimming classes—wanted to learn more about a sport in which most had already developed some proficiency.

Commenting on the choice of recreational sports, Yuhasz observed that few of the group would be playing on hockey or basketball teams when they went out into the business world; most would be able to benefit from having learned a sport such as badminton, squash or handball while at college.

Hotte, Charest Lead Mates In Bruising Ice Encounter

By FRANK SHAMY

Displaying the class that won them the Senior Intercollegiate hockey championship, University of Montreal Carabins defeated the McGill Redmen 7-3 last night at the Verdun Auditorium, as they chalked up their eighth consecutive league victory over the Redmen in three years of play.

Andre Charest, whose rushes and poke checks again terrorized the Redmen, led his team to their well earned victory by scoring one goal and assisting on four others. Top goal-getter for the Carabins was Claude Hotte with two markers, both scored in the middle period less than two minutes apart.

Pete McElheron and Jim McGowan each garnered a goal and an assist for the Redmen, and both played good games up front and on the defence respectively. Whitey Schulz, who figured in all three McGill tallies, boosted his point total by three assists.

Graeme Teasdale scored McGill's other goal early in the second period. Teasdale missed several other good chances including a breakaway in the first stanza, but Lady Luck just wouldn't smile for the kid wearing the big No. 9 on his sweater.

The game was fairly well played but seemed to lack the typical Redmen-Carabin atmosphere of previous encounters. Not until the third period did the boys begin to rough it up and the tense rivalry between the clubs wasn't evident until the fistfuffs in the last 20 minutes.

The sparse but noisy McGill supporters believed themselves in for a dramatic upset the way the Redmen started the first stanza, but such was not to be the case. McGill's lines of Duke, Schuts and McElheron, and Teasdale, Irvin and Robillard applied continuous pressure for about almost the entire first four minutes but couldn't dent the twine behind Auger.

The Carabins got their first shot on goal at 3:52 and this shot by Albert Day was enough to put them one goal up. Charest and Dagenais then scored in that order before McGill hit the scoring column. Pete McElheron trapped a McGowan pass at centre ice at 17:10 and skated in all alone on Auger. He made no mistake, blasting the puck into the left side of the net.

McGill outshot and outplayed U. of M. in the first period but the Redmen lacked polish inside their opponents' blue line. Time and time again they came within inches of scoring but they just couldn't get clear shots at Auger.

The Carabins, however, pounced on every opportunity that came their way and didn't make many mistakes in front of McLellan.

McGill was outscored 3-2 in the second stanza and that just about sums up the territorial play in this period. Except for breakaway goals by Teasdale and Claude Hotte, the session was relatively uneventful from a fan's viewpoint.

Artswomen Take Mural Rifle Meet

The Faculty of Arts copped their first intramural championship last week, when its undergraduate coeds knocked off several other squads in the women's intramural rifle shoot at the Currie Gym. Averaging 98 per cent, the winners scored a total of 2065 points out of a possible 3000.

Medicine placed second with 96 per cent, followed by the Graduate Nurses and Science with averages of 95.4 per cent and 94 per cent respectively.

Highest individual scorer for the Artswomen was Barbara Fraser, while Dorothy Nichol and Audrey Wipper also displayed some accurate shooting for the victors.

Gals Drop Fencing

Last Friday night a women's intercity fencing match was held between Sir George Williams and McGill with the latter losing 8-4.

Sue Brady, who won all her three events; Rosemarie Eakins, who was victorious in one of three, Mary Burns and Mary Phillips were the members of McGill's squad.

In an earlier match this year, McGill was defeated by the YWHA 46-44. Next Thursday they will compete against Palestre National and in two weeks against the Westmount YWCA.

The McGill Intercollegiate team was scheduled to meet St. Lawrence last weekend, but the contest was postponed to March 4.

The final event of the season will be the PQSA championships in March. On the 5th the Class C, Rosemarie Eakins, Mary Burns and Margery Phillips, will compete. In Class B on the 15th the winning half of the C group will enter. On the 29th Sue Brady, who played second last year, will duel in the A group. This event will close the fencing at McGill.

Archery Club Ends With Intramural Silver Arrow Meet

Intramural competition among the members of the Archery Club took the form of an Indoor Silver Arrow meet last week with a 4-round tournament, shot at a distance of 15 yards. Ann McLeist, manager of the club, copped top honours by obtaining a high score of 184 points. Also showing marked skill in this meet were Shirley Courtis and Christine Sexton.

A club party tonight closes a successful archery season.

McGill Coeds Lose 7-0

McGill co-eds were victims of a 7-0 shutout at the hands of their Macdonald College sisters last Friday under the lights at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, in the second of two hockey matches between the two colleges this year.

This was the last game of the year for the girls, but plans are well underway for a regular intramural ice hockey league here at McGill next year, much along the same lines as the successful schedule which has just been completed at Mac.

Phys Eds Win Hoop Championship By Decisive Victory

Physical Education 3 was declared intramural basketball champions on Monday by the coeds downed the semi-finalists from the fourth year of the same faculty 23-13.

The game was fast and clean throughout, and up until the second half, it was anyone's victory.

Outstanding scorers for the winners were Ruth Welsman, Sheila Smith and Jane Thompson, while Clair Cran was effective on defence. Wendy Cleugh, Bliss Matthews and Jane Currie played leading roles for the losers.

Russian Expansion Stopped by Force Says I.R.C. Guest

"Western civilization is presently facing the most severe danger that ever threatened its existence," said Julius Eulambio, at yesterday's meeting of the International Relations Club, held in the Clubroom of the Union.

"Russian expansion can be stopped by force," he said, "but nations expected to fight in a coming war should be given not only a promise but a guarantee that they are fighting for a better world."

He pointed out the corruption of the Greek government, that they haven't done anything to help the people. People vote for a particular party because they hope it will be less corrupt, and that it will give them employment.

"Yugoslavia is of secondary importance today, because on the one hand Tito cannot be trusted, and on the other it has been proved in the last war that her extended frontiers cannot be defended, therefore her military importance is minimal."

"Turkey has been one of the few lucky ones. They managed to escape the hardships of war. The troubles of the Balkan Peninsula had no direct effect. But the Turks are determined to fight because they consider Russia as their No. 1 foe. They need stability, because Turkey is a new country and they

Outing Club Fans To Ski Over The Garou Trail

The McGill Outing Club will feature a cross country ski trail this Sunday from Val Morin to Morin Heights over the Loupe Garou trail. Carey Stead will lead the trip and can be reached at WE 3364. The party will leave Windsor station at 8 a.m. Sunday; the train stops at Westmount, Montreal West and Park Extension and also at Shawbridge for skiers who have spent the night at MOC House.

The club pro, Gordie Rowe, will be on hand at the House Sunday to continue his course of ski lessons for beginners and intermediates. These lessons are free to MOCers and regularly cost over $3 per hour.

Skiers who are planning to spend Friday and Saturday night at MOC House in Shawbridge must make reservations in advance with George at the Tuck Shop in the Union.

Daily Dinner Followed By Awards Party

Daily staffers will hear former Daily Sports Editor Doug Amaron this evening as guest speaker at the Annual Banquet of the McGill Daily.

The festivities will commence at 7 p.m. sharp when staffers will assemble in the Union Grill Room for dinner. Various toasts will be proposed, and the promotions for next year's staff will be announced. Following these the new Editor-in-Chief will be proclaimed.

The subject of Doug Amaron's speech is, unlike the speaker who graduated from McGill in 1936 with a B.A. degree, unknown. While at McGill Mr. Amaron was an active figure in student affairs. He was Sports Editor of both the Daily and the Annual and executive member of the S.E.C. and Arts and Science Undergraduates Association.

Until 1947, Mr. Amaron worked for the Canadian Press. He was a war correspondent for six and a half years and following this went to the Sherbrooke Daily Record where he is now Editorial Director.

Following the banquet the company will adjourn to the Reading Room for a party. Here the decorations will be in red and white with balloons and posters in an appropriate theme.

The program of dancing and square dancing will be highlighted by the presentation of award pins to staff members. The executive also plans to have suitable refreshments on hand.

Unconventionality Is Note of Arena

By J. J. D.

The Arena Style Production is a relatively new idea. But a highly successful one. This coming March 20, a production is scheduled to be presented, arena style, that is such a startling departure from the conventional that it could be considered a phenomena. On the 20th of March, students who care to witness the event, will see an 18-minute spectacle that combines a piano concerto and a ballet in an arena theatre and was written by a young McGill student by the name of Barrie McLean. The most unusual aspect of this ballet is that it takes place around (literally) a piano. The story involves the thoughts that skirt through the mind of a composer as he plays a composition of his (played on stage by the actual composer, Barrie McLean). These thoughts are portrayed by two ballerinas one of which is played by Helene Kaille but who the other ballerina is we are not certain.

For those readers who don't appreciate the art of stagecraft quite as much as the average Honors English student, and consequently does not go to many conventional dramas this performance should prove unusually interesting.

This amazing experiment is not the only item on the evening program however. There will also be presented four one-act plays written by George Loukidis, Lionel Caplan, Kenneth Rosenberg and George Bloomfield. The entire production is under the management of the Players Club.

Barrie McLean is an 18-year-old Arts student who studied composition under Hector Gratton. Why he is an Arts student we don't know. We all make mistakes.

Marie Iosch to Play on Harp At 'Spring Song'

Marie Iosch, harpist, and Marie Duschene, flautist, will be guest artists at this season's "Spring Song" concert to be held March 22nd at the Currie Gym.

Miss Iosch studied under the French harpist, Marcel Grandjany, and began professional work at 18, becoming harpist of Les Concerts Symphoniques de Montreal. She is presently with the Montreal Women's Symphony and has done with the CBC and various local opera and film companies as well as with the Youth Concerts and the Little Symphony. McGill students will remember her fine performance last year of Ravel's Introduction and Allegro for Harp. Her programme will include some solo work and duet work with the flute by Debussy and Second and Purcell's Sonata in D minor for flute and harp.

Marie Duschene studied flute, recorder and Allied subjects under Henri Gagnon and Andre Pepin and at the Geneva Conservatory of Music. He came to Canada in 1949 and appeared shortly as soloist with the McGill String Quartet. Presently he is with the Ottawa Symphony Orchestra and teaches recorder and flute at the Ottawa Conservatory of Music and at the Priory and St. Georges Junior Schools in Montreal. Besides his programme with Miss Iosch, M. Duschene will play a 17th century flute entitled "Greensleeves to a Ground."

ROOM 33

1.00 P.M.

Students at Bishop's College have been wondering whether their Women's Union is becoming obsolete. In view of the fact that several student forums have been printed in The Daily on this subject, the following article from The Campus, the Bishop College newspaper, has been reprinted here.

Lennoxville — (CUP) — Of what use is the Women's Society? Before the question is answered let us say just what the Women's Society is. This "Campus Tradition" composed of all the women in the university. They meet on the first Wednesday of every month at 7 p.m. in the Old Dining Hall at Bishop's; this alone is a bad arrangement because the Students' Association meeting is in the afternoon of the same day. The executive of the Women's Society is the Women's Committee.

All women students, resident and non-resident, must attend these meetings. If they don't, they are fined 25c. If by some unforeseen circumstance they do not attend two meetings in a row, the fine goes up to 50. This situation is kept well in hand by taking roll call at the beginning of every meeting. After the checking in, most of the business taken up is the same as was heard in the afternoon. The exception to this rule is the discussion of the Women's Common Room in New Arts. At the beginning of the year the committee spend their budget on as many ash trays, tables and lamps as possible. The rest of the year, we are reminded not to lose the ash trays, put books on the tables, or stick fingers through the lamp shades... good advice, but not once a month for three years!

The meeting is adjourned leaving those who attend none the wiser for their efforts and those who didn't, out two bits.

Has the question, "what use is the Women's Society?" been answered? One of the members of the members of the executive was overheard to say "Leave it alone and it will die a natural death. In order that we don't have to bear the agony of its last breaths with it, I move we abolish the meetings of the Women's Society, and let the Women's Committee handle the ash trays."

Dr. Karl Stern Guest Of Newman on Sunday

Tom Gard's Note Book

When tools are stored indoors for winter, the gardener and the craftsman are reminded that a stitch in time still saves nine, and that a little care will prolong the life of equipment. Tools should be thoroughly cleaned, the metal rubbed down with steel wool and then given a rub with an oily rag to prevent rust. Then the handles might be given a coat of fresh paint — and they're all ready when spring appears.

I always feel a doorway should convey the impression of welcome. This can easily be brought about by placing evergreens in

AN AID TO CARVING

A few nights ago a friend was telling me of his difficulty in learning to carve, when I spoke another friend and told him how to make an aid to carving from a dresser. This unique idea is worth passing on to our readers. The young war veteran decided then and there he would carry out the idea.

LAWN SWING

Last summer when in the Georgian Bay district I came across an attractive piece of lawn furniture, made of iron pipes and some canvas found in the boat-house. To brighten up the canvas the chap had painted in the pattern with red and green paint left over after he had painted his boats. The joints were all welded for strength, and it was noticed the kiddies could take a running jump into the swing without danger.
